Tobacco Farmers Warned Against Use of Toxaphene

An urgent warning to farmers against the use of toxaphene on tobacco crops has been issued by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

"Toxaphene is an injurious insecticide, according to an official of one of the larger tobacco companies, that renders tobacco practically worthless for manufacturing purposes because of its odor and taste on cured tobacco," said Russell Hunt, UK tobacco specialist. "Even when used on small plants, or on the ground a year before the crop is planted, toxaphene has a residual effect which will show up when the tobacco is steamed in the process of manufacture, although it was not evident on the crop on the floor."

"Unless farmers realize the damage to tobacco through toxaphene and use other materials to control insects, there is danger of destroying the tobacco market in Kentucky," said Mr. Hunt. "Tobacco provides about 40 percent of the crop income in the state. We urge farmers to recognize the facts and avoid using toxaphene at any time upon tobacco."

Other insecticides are equally effective in killing grasshoppers and hornworms, and without injurious results. It was pointed out, Aldrin, Chlordane and Endrin are effective against grasshoppers. Several insecticides are recommended for hornworms, including Rhothane and Endrin.

RABIES CLINIC SET FOR AUG. 2

A letter was received by the Morgan County Health Department this week from L. L. Brech, State Veterinarian, approving the date Monday, Aug. 2, for the health department to hold a mass immunization of dogs for rabies.

An accredited graduate veterinarian will administer live virus vaccine of chole embro origin to all dogs immunized at this clinic. Dr. Brech said in this letter that tissue vaccine is not recognized by the Kentucky State Board of Health and all dogs vaccinated with tissue vaccine can not be considered officially vaccinated and can not move interstate, especially if vaccinated by a non-accredited veterinarian.

The vaccine that will be used in the clinic Aug. 2 is approved by State Department of Health, and dogs that are vaccinated at this clinic will be registered at the local health department and will be considered officially vaccinated by the State Department of Health.

Tags will be issued to each dog and will reveal the year of vaccination and type of vaccine used. It is known that the immunity of the live virus rabies vaccine is effective for at least three years and has been recommended for use by the U. S. Public Health Service and approved by the biological control section of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, whose responsibility it is to approve all veterinary vaccine and biologicals.

All persons owning dogs are urged to bring them to this clinic. A fee of $1.50 for a three-year immunity will be charged. This clinic will be held near the court house and the hours will be 9-12 and 1-3, fast time.

PLANS SHAPING UP FOR HOMECOMING

A variety of entertaining events are shaping up for the Morgan county school homecoming here Saturday, August 21, but one of the most unique is the "swap back" that will take place in the old home town when everyone gets together for the annual school homecoming.

The "swap back" is all in fun and just part of the informal gaily that will take place in the old home town when everyone gets together for the annual school homecoming.

There are no hosts more gracious in all of Morgan county than Senator and Mrs. Curtis K. Stacy, and Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, they will open the gates to their yard and the doors to their home, in welcome reception for all homecomers. To assist the Stacys in making everyone feel as welcome as the rains that fell this week will be Mrs. J. L. Blair, Mrs. Bob Brown, Mrs. Henry Lowell Allen, Mrs. Herbert Wells, Mrs. James Perry, Rebekah Phillips, Martha Fannin, Mrs. Robert Stafford, Mrs. Harold Hammond.

The decorating committee plans to deck the Stacy yard and home in school colors and make the refreshment table pretty. This committee is composed of Floris Cox, chm., Catherine Walton, Leona Rose, and Melda Fairchild.

It is not every event that is big enough to sport two masters-of-ceremony but the school homecoming is outdoing them all. Dennis Nickell of Ashland will MC the banquet event and Walter Franklin the entertainment that follows at the auditorium. Chairman of the entertainment hour is Merle Nickell; others to help him roll homecomers in the aisles with laughter are Sonny Rose, Clarence Black, R. L. Gullett, Major Gardner, and Walter Franklin.

West Liberty has never given away a key to the city, but Mayor Alvin Evans is going to do just that at the 6:30 p.m. dinner at the high school cafeteria.

Sonny Rose and Andy Walter say not to worry about the big square dance. They also say if you can't keep up with "First couple on the right take the lead, down to the middle and circle the floor." Around this couple take a little peep, back to the middle and clap your feet. Around this couple peep once more back to the middle and circle the floor—then you can always do "All the way around and half way back. Swing your partner. Promenade!" Folks are looking forward to the square dance and Andy and Sonny say everyone'd better be tuning up.

Just so everyone can dance a little, round dancing will be enjoyed during intermissions. Oscar Pfeiffer and Martha Fannin will furnish the music—record player, that is.

Make Reservations Now

In order that the ladies of the Margaret Stacy Guild will know how many to cook for, reservations must be made in advance. Elsewhere on this page will be found a coupon, fill it out and return as soon as possible. Tickets will be sold by Merle Nickell, Floris Cox and Martha Fannin. These tickets will go on sale next week. Price per plate is $1.50. If you do not have a ticket, then make your reservation by coupon or postcard soon.

This homecoming is for the enjoyment of all alumni, present and former students and faculty members. Plan now to attend.

Judge John A. Keck Liberal In Probating Sentences Of First Offenders; Says "I Try to Make Citizens"

(Grayson Journal-Examiner)

The Kentucky Circuit Judge, who is perhaps the most liberal judge in Kentucky for probating first offenders, said today that "I know I am right."

This newspaper called to the attention of Judge John A. Keck that he had granted 17 "probably more probations than any judge in the state."

"Your figures are wrong," Keck said. "Actually, I believe that I have probated 60 to 70 percent of first offenders."

Judge Keck, who was formerly Highway Commissioner of the State, made these observations:

"Less than 10 percent of the people I have probated, violated the parole."

"I can produce the records of over 100 men and women, who have been probated by me in the past two years, who are now living good lives and are making good citizens. Only yesterday, a young man came to me to tell me he was getting married, had over a thousand dollars in the bank, and was working every day. This boy got drunk one night and broke in a place. If I had sent him to the penitentiary he might have ended up in crime."

"Each case is an individual one. Before granting probation I talk with the people of the community and the Commonwealth Attorney. Oftentimes I visit the aggrieved person, who brought the charges, and in nearly every case they have agreed with me, and many times tried to personally help the offender."

"After I probate, I try to take an interest in the offender. I inquire about him and sometimes visit him to see how he is getting along. I spend much time with the probation officer and we go over the cases. When I think the probated person might be associated in bad company or there is indication he is violating his parole I mark this down as a case for special attention. In most cases, I ask the parole officer to have the parolee come in and I try to have a heart to heart talk with him. Generally, I also talk to his parents or his wife, sometimes at my home."

"I believe one of the great mistakes of many courts is being too harsh with first offenders. The purpose of the court should be to try to make good citizens out of people who have strayed. The penitentiaries are breeding places for making people hardened criminals."

Judge Keck declared he wanted to make plain that "I am not very lenient with second or third offenders."

He said also that there are certain crimes such as premeditated assault, sexual offenses and

GRASSY CREEK—

FAMILY REUNION
AT CARTER CAVES

GRASSY CREEK, Ky., July 12—(By J. M. Gevedon)—On last Sunday the writer and wife and most of their children, grandchildren and in-laws came in from the East, West, North and South to hold a family reunion at Carter Caves. It was a beautiful day and we really made it a pleasurable occasion. In the shade of the beautiful forest, the sixteen of us picnicked around a table loaded with most everything palatable and wholesome. We drove over the circling roads, or walked the shady pathways, gazing on and picturing the rugged scenery. We drank from the clear cool fountains, cooled ourselves in the underground caverns and watched the children enjoy the playgrounds prepared for their pleasure.

I had toured this landscape many years ago, long before it became a public park. At that time much of it was barely accessible to the visiting public, but now everything has been made convenient and all places of note are easily approached.

I wondered why so many people travel so far to visit natural bridges that are only holes through cliffs upon the ridges, while here is a natural bridge that actually spans a water course, and though not so high, is actually of greater volume than Natural Bridge in Virginia. And besides, a public road crosses this bridge and I crossed it in a car many years ago. Several caverns open upon this park and one has the choice of exploring any, or all of them. In the Saltpeper cave, there may be seen thousands of names, some of them written or inscribed far back in early seventeen hundreds. I can find many names of the old folks I knew in my childhood, and many that we would have to look into history if we would learn of them.

No entrance fees are charged on entering the park and ample parking space is furnished. The visitor has freedom of the grounds with nothing to pay for except the tour of the caverns or something he wished to buy. Altogether, it is a delightful place to spend a pleasant day.

Three silos on the farm of Floyd Cash in Taylor county were filled with rye and vetch; other silos in the county were filled with barley and clover.

To water a hanging basket and not spill water, insert a small funnel in the dirt in the center and hidden by foliage. Fill this funnel with water every day, and it will soak into the soil gradually.

Cole Wild Animal Circus Here Aug. 7

The circus is coming to town! Tooting of calliope, blare of bands, the lumbering elephants, clumsy camels, roaring lions, prancing horses, pretty aerialists, funny clowns, peanuts and red lemonade — THE CIRCUS IS COMING TO TOWN!

Jack Turner, advance representative of the Famous Geo. W. Cole Wild Animal Circus, was in town recently making preliminary arrangements for the exhibition of the circus in West Liberty for two performances, afternoon and evening on Saturday, Aug. 7.

Many of the best acts in the entire circus world will take part in the fast moving circus program. Included among these are The Flying Purcells, Cole's herd of performing elephants, presented by Miss Shirley Walters; The Cordellos from Old Mexico; The Gallagher troupe, The Sensational Riding Grubbs', Allen Bros. performing bears, Manuel Ortiz, king of the tight wire; Miss Diane's Canine Revue, an aerial ballet of beautiful girls and clowns galore. Stressed in the circus advertising is the greatly reduced prices of admission this season.

A large collection of animals is featured by this well known circus, and the public is invited to witness the feeding of these wild animals free at 10:00 a.m. circus day.

"Goliath," a monster hippopotamus from the River Nile, weighing over four tons, will be on exhibition daily on the circus grounds.

LICKING RIVER DAM APPROVED

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources last week approved construction of a five-foot dam across the South Fork of Licking River at Pointdexter near Cynthiana. The project is sponsored by the Harrison County Rod and Gun Club as a means of improving fishing and boating on Licking River in that vicinity. The dam will be constructed under the supervision of T. R. Powers, head engineer for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Now that the State is permitting Licking to be dammed for sports and recreational purposes, The Courier foresees an opportunity to create a recreational area on Licking at or near West Liberty. A five- or eight-foot dam in Licking anywhere in Morgan would provide a long stretch of beautiful water that would provide excellent boating, fishing and swimming. And, too, the added water would be of value in drouth years.

It's a worthwhile project for some group.

MANY TOWNS ENJOY SWIMMING POOL

Evidence that a number of towns in surrounding counties are turning out to enjoy West Liberty's new swimming pool was shown Tuesday when swimmers from Elliott, Magoffin, Wolfe and Breathitt counties were noted. Included in the Breathitt entourage from Jackson were business men who said Jackson too might build a pool soon. A party of nineteen, representing a church organization from Campton, enjoyed the afternoon in the pool.

As enjoyable as the pool is at present, plans are being discussed to move the fence back still further for next season to make room for picnic area and additional sun bathing space. Since the pool opened July 3, many youngsters have learned to swim and dive, some of them after one lesson.

SOLDIER OF REVOLUTION (The Lexington Herald)

In the country cemeteries of Kentucky rest all that is mortal of many brave heroes and outstanding figures of the past who played their part to pave the way for the civilization that is enjoyed today.

Under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution, tribute has been fittingly paid to one of these, Thomas Lewis, a pioneer settler of Morgan county. At Pomp, Ky., a marker for his grave was unveiled in the presence of fifth-generation members of the family of this man who came to the United States from Wales and took part as a scout, spy and soldier in the Revolution and in the expedition of George Rogers Clark into the Northwest Territory.

Such tributes perpetuate the memory of those whose deeds were immortal.

There comes a time, in everybody's life, when one gets enough, and we mean enough.

The average business man is against government aid to businesses other than his own.

bank, he smiles pleasantly and has a kind and easy voice. He does not look his 49 years. In 1937 he married Miss Gladys Flannery and with their daughter, Martha Jo, live at 3rd street in Morehead.

When talking about his good health he says, "I attribute this to divine providence and feel that the Lord has smiled and been good to me." He attends church regularly and is a teacher in the Sunday school at the First Church of God.

ANOTHER GOOD RAIN

Morgan county received two good rains this week that will materially aid crops after a period of intense heat that followed the month-long drouth in June.

John Turner, local weather observer, reported rainfall of 1.2 inches Sunday and 1.95 inches Wednesday for a total of 3.15 inches this week. This added to the 3.61 inches that fell two weeks ago has provided Morgan with 6.76 inches in two weeks.

The rains fell at a critical time for tobacco and corn and pastures. This week's rainfall will "make" early tobacco in Morgan, and late tobacco also is in good condition now. Prospects for a good burley crop in Morgan are excellent at this time.

The intense heat that preceded the rain on Tuesday reached a high of 97 here, which was 3 degrees lower than Wednesday of the week before, Mr. Turner said.

keep the record straight it must be stated that we did not use a fisherman's rule or scales in recording their size.

State Aids Morgan Build Rural Roads

FRANKFORT, Ky., July 20—The State Department of Highways gave Morgan county maintenance help on 31.2 miles of rural highways during the fiscal year ending June 30, according to a report by George H. Hailey, director of the State's Division of Rural Highways.

The figure includes all mileage obligated for assistance under Kentucky's program of helping to build and maintain county roads. For this purpose, a fund of $5,000,000 from the general highway fund is set up each year and projects are decided upon by representatives of the State Department of Highways and county fiscal courts.

The program is entirely separate from the work of the Department of Rural Highways which builds highways from a fund provided by a two-cents a gallon gasoline tax for rural road purposes.

Mileage involved in Morgan county was under constant patrol by grading equipment which graded a total of 184.5 miles, and 31.2 miles were resurfaced; 36.9 miles were ditched, and 28 structures repaired including bridges and culverts.

POTTER FUNERAL HOME AMBULANCE CALLS

July 20—Mazie Whitt and baby boy from Gullett and Spencer Clinic to Redwine.

Morgan County Farm Home of the Week

SMALL BUT CONVENIENT

Our FARM AND RANCH Plan No. 15 provides a comfortable home that offers you as much convenience as can be found in a house of this size. The bedrooms are large enough to make furniture arrangement easy and give plenty of window space for light and cross ventilation. Each bedroom has two closets.

The work area in the kitchen is quite compact and convenient to save the housewife unnecessary steps. And there is plenty of space for a table on which to serve the family meals.

On the back porch there is room for a freezer chest, or laundry equipment, and a closet. The living room purposely has been made rather spacious in order to provide space for an extra bed, if it is needed and still leave plenty of room. Or it could be used as a combination living-dining room.

The central hall is provided to eliminate a lot of travel through certain rooms in the house, thus alleviating some house cleaning. Economy has been considered carefully during the entire planning of the house. The bath and kitchen are located so all the plumbing can be grouped together, thus requiring only one large drain. This means considerable reduction in plumbing costs. The house has been designed for you to use piers instead of a solid concrete foundation. The "L" shape makes it easy to hold all framing lumber to a minimum size. The shed-type roof over the kitchen and back porch help to keep the cost per square foot as low as possible, yet in no way will it affect the comfort, convenience, or attractiveness of the well-planned home.

You can obtain blueprints for this FARM & RANCH Plan No. 4915 and a handy list of materials by which you can figure your construction cost accurately. Send $2.00 to Building Editor, Farm & Ranch - Southern Agriculturist, Dept. E-89, Nashville, Tenn. Order by number—Plan No. 4915. Blueprints are adequate for any farm carpenter or for any farmer handy with tools.

LICKING RIVER DAM APPROVED

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources last week approved construction of a five-foot dam across the South Fork of Licking River at Pointdexter near Cynthiana. The project is sponsored by the Harrison County Rod and Gun Club as a means of improving fishing and boating on Licking River in that vicinity. The dam will be constructed under the supervision of T. R. Powers, head engineer for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Now that the State is permitting Licking to be dammed for sports and recreational purposes, The Courier foresees an opportunity to create a recreational area on Licking at or near West Liberty. A five- or eight-foot dam in Licking anywhere in Morgan would provide a long stretch of beautiful water that would provide excellent boating, fishing and swimming. And, too, the added water would be of value in drouth years.

It's a worthwhile project for some group.

Morgan County Farm Home of the Week

SMALL BUT CONVENIENT

Our FARM AND RANCH Plan No. 15 provides a comfortable home that offers you as much convenience as can be found in a house of this size. The bedrooms are large enough to make furniture arrangement easy and give plenty of window space for light and cross ventilation. Each bedroom has two closets.

The work area in the kitchen is quite compact and convenient to save the housewife unnecessary steps. And there is plenty of space for a table on which to serve the family meals.

On the back porch there is room for a freezer chest, or laundry equipment, and a closet. The living room purposely has been made rather spacious in order to provide space for an extra bed, if it is needed and still leave plenty of room. Or it could be used as a combination living-dining room.

The central hall is provided to eliminate a lot of travel through certain rooms in the house, thus alleviating some house cleaning.

Economy has been considered carefully during the entire planning of the house. The bath and kitchen are located so all the plumbing can be grouped together, er, thus requiring only one large drain. This means considerable reduction in plumbing costs. The house has been designed for you to use piers instead of a solid concrete foundation. The "L" shape makes it easy to hold all framing lumber to a minimum size. The shed-type roof over the kitchen and back porch help to keep the cost per square foot as low as possible, yet in no way will it affect the comfort, convenience, or attractiveness of the well-planned home.

You can obtain blueprints for this FARM & RANCH Plan No. 4915 and a handy list of materials by which you can figure your construction cost accurately. Send $2.00 to Building Editor, Farm & Ranch - Southern Agriculturist, Dept. E-89, Nashville, Tenn. Order by number—Plan No. 4915. Blueprints are adequate for any farm carpenter or for any farmer handy with tools.

MANY TOWNS ENJOY SWIMMING POOL

Evidence that a number of towns in surrounding counties are turning out to enjoy West Liberty's new swimming pool was shown Tuesday when swimmers from Elliott, Magoffin, Wolfe and Breathitt counties were noted. Included in the Breathitt entourage from Jackson were business men who said Jackson too might build a pool soon. A party of nineteen, representing a church organization from Campton, enjoyed the afternoon in the pool.

As enjoyable as the pool is at present, plans are being discussed to move the fence back still further for next season to make room for picnic area and additional sun bathing space.

Since the pool opened July 3, many youngsters have learned to swim and dive, some of them after one lesson.

SOLDIER OF REVOLUTION (The Lexington Herald)

In the country cemeteries of Kentucky rest all that is mortal of many brave heroes and outstanding figures of the past who played their part to pave the way for the civilization that is enjoyed today.

Under the auspices of the Daughters of the American Revolution, tribute has been fittingly paid to one of these, Thomas Lewis, a pioneer settler of Morgan county. At Pomp, Ky., a marker for his grave was unveiled in the presence of fifth-generation members of the family of this man who came to the United States from Wales and took part as a scout, spy and soldier in the Revolution and in the expedition of George Rogers Clark into the Northwest Territory.

Such tributes perpetuate the memory of those whose deeds were immortal.

There comes a time, in everybody's life, when one gets enough, and we mean enough.

The average business man is against government aid to businesses other than his own.

bank, he smiles pleasantly and has a kind and easy voice. He does not look his 49 years.

In 1937 he married Miss Gladys Flanner, and with their daughter, Martha Jo, live at 3rd street in Morehead.

When talking about his good health he says, "I attribute this to divine providence and feel that the Lord has smiled and been good to me." He attends church regularly and is a teacher in the Sunday school at the First Church of God.

ANOTHER GOOD RAIN

Morgan county received two good rains this week that will materially aid crops after a period of intense heat that followed the month-long drouth in June.

John Turner, local weather observer, reported rainfall of 1.2 inches Sunday and 1.35 inches Wednesday for a total of 3.15 inches this week. This added to the 3.61 inches that fell two weeks ago has provided Morgan with 6.76 inches in two weeks.

The rains fell at a critical time for tobacco and corn and pastures. This week's rainfall will "make" early tobacco in Morgan, and late tobacco also is in good condition now. Prospects for a good burley crop in Morgan are excellent at this time.

The intense heat that preceded the rain on Tuesday reached a high of 97 here, which was 3 degrees lower than Wednesday of the week before, Mr. Turner said.

A tomato weighing a pound and 13 ounces and measuring 17 inches in circumference was displayed Saturday by Rev. R. L. Meyers, pastor of the West Liberty Methodist church. Rev. and Mrs. Meyers grew the tomato in their garden near the parsonage. On Monday Rev. Meyers added three more large tomatoes to his display. One weighed a pound and 10½ ounces, one that weighed a pound and 8 ounces and another a pound 3 ounces. Then Wednesday in came Rev. Meyers with still another tomato weighing a pound and 14 ounces. When he first brought them to the Courier office he inquired for the fishing editor. But just to FRANKFORT, Ky., July 20—The State Department of Highways gave Morgan county maintenance help on 31.2 miles of rural highways during the fiscal year ending June 30, according to a report by George H. Hailey, director of the State's Division of Rural Highways.

The figure includes all mileage obligated for assistance under Kentucky's program of helping to build and maintain county roads. For this purpose, a fund of $5,000,000 from the general highway fund is set up each year and projects are decided upon by representatives of the State Department of Highways and county fiscal courts.

The program is entirely separate from the work of the Department of Rural Highways which builds highways from a fund provided by a two-cents a gallon gasoline tax for rural road purposes.

Mileage involved in Morgan county was under constant patrol by grading equipment which graded a total of 184.5 miles, and 31.2 miles were resurfaced; 36.9 miles were ditched, and 28 structures repaired including bridges and culverts.

BETTY JO PRICE-HAROLD G. ELAM ARE WED

The wedding of Miss Betty Jo Price, daughter of Mrs. Grace Reed Price and Solomon Paul Price of Winchester, and A.K.A.N. Harold Gardner Elam, United States Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Elam, also of Winchester, was solemnized at 3:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. E. L. Edgington, Jr. and Mr. Edgington on South Burns avenue, Winchester. The Rev. A. Dalton Leath, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated at the ceremony. An improvised altar with an arrangement of white gladiolus, ferns interspersed with candelabra that held burning tapers, formed the background for the ceremony.

Miss Billie Burke Smith, Winchester presented a program of nuptial music that included the selections, "Because, I Love You Truly, Oh Promise Me, Ah Sweet Mystery of Life and Always."

Mrs. Price gave her daughter in marriage. She wore a waltz-length gown of white embroidered swiss organdy designed with a strapless bodice, a matching jacket featuring fitted sleeves that ended in points over her hands, and a bouffant skirt. Her shoulder length veil of nylon net was caught to a tiny head band of Lillies of the Valley, and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid, from which fell white satin streamers knotted with stephanotis.

Miss Susan Stephenson of Winchester was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of cornflower blue eyelet organdy over matching taffeta, made with a tight bodice and full waltz-length skirt. She wore a bandeau of summer flowers in her hair.

Dean Elam of Winchester served his brother as best man.

Mrs. Price chose for her daughter's wedding a blue embroidered linen dress with white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of white eucharist lilies. Mrs. Elam, mother of the bridegroom, wore a rose crepe dress with white accessories and a corsage of white eucharist lilies.

The bride's traveling ensemble was a pink shantung suit with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. After a wedding trip south the groom will return to his station at Patuxent River, Maryland, and the bride will join him at a later date.

The bride was graduated from Winchester High school and the Fugazzi School of Business. The bridegroom is a graduate of Clark County High school and attended Eastern Kentucky State College at Richmond.

Song sharks and racketeering music publishers have been discussed before in this column. Perhaps it would be well to go into the discussion further, especially since Bernard Hager has sent a poem on the subject in which he gives the definition of a song shark just in case you don't know what one is.

A SONG SHARK

A song shark is a cunning bug who feeds upon your honey. He pulls your heartstrings with a tug. Then next he gets your money. He makes you feel he knows the game. It's then you fall his prey. Your song will lose its touch of fame, for all he wants is pay. His contract does the work for you. Then with a flowery tale, He pictures things that he will do while waiting with you grow stale.

I have been waiting many a year For all the wealth and fame That song sharks told me was so near— But losses marred my gain.

You can find these song sharks advertising in almost any magazine. They will promise to publish any song you care to submit—no matter how bad it is. You pay them for this, naturally. The Writer's Market, published by The Writer's Digest, 22 East 12th St., Cincinnati, Ohio, gives a clear picture of the writer-song shark situation. In the section, How to Sell a Song, The Writer's Market says, "The best way to sell a song is to be the brother-in-law of the publisher, and any other way is the long way around."

In regard to those ads you see in the magazines The Writer's Market says, "A number of firms advertise that they will 'publish your song.' They mean that for a fee they will print, copyright, revise and correct your song. Such firms are usually not song publishers, but music printers or music printer brokers. The service they offer can be very welcome to a writer living far out of touch with a publisher, but the danger of their service is that in some cases, like in anything else, the service may be overpriced, and also, in buying such a service, the free-lance writer may think he has accomplished something; whereas he merely has a tool (i.e., his printed songs) with which to work.

The article also warns the writer to "check with your local Better Business Bureau before doing business with a firm selling a service to song writers. There are such firms that fulfill all their obligations and are forthright, and others that charge a lot of money for 'hammy' results."

Perhaps one of the most important notes in the article is this: "If you don't have a cultural verse and music background, think twice and then once again before investing time or money." By the way, if you are at all interested in writing, The Writer's Market is a good book to have around, and The Writer's Digest is a monthly publication which can be very helpful to both beginners and professionals. You may order them both from the address given above.

Morgan Girl Ordered By Gunman To Turn Over Cash in Holdup

A jittery bandit held up a loan-company office in the Martin Brown Building at Fourth and Broadway, forced six employees to lie on the floor, and made off with $501 yesterday afternoon.

Charles E. Brown, manager of the Personal Finance Company office on the second floor of the building, said the "nervous" robber came into the office about 3:50 p.m. Johnson described the man as about 5 feet 7, 165 pounds, and "mean" and "with sandy hair."

He went to the desk of Miss Melva Wingo, behind the office counter, and pointed a pistol at her and other employees. After telling them to lie on the floor, he ordered Miss Wingo to give him all the bills in two cash drawers.

Miss Wingo said she was scared but "he was more nervous than I was."

After telling the workers "Don't do anything for 3 or 4 minutes," the bandit walked from the office.

Brown said it was the first time the office had been robbed.

Police said the robber's description and mannerisms tallied with those of a gunman who on Monday afternoon robbed the Kentucky Finance company, 618 W. Broadway of $327.

FISHING NEWS

Bernard Whitt, Fishing Editor

We have a card from Dr. and Mrs. Alec Spencer who are touring the West. They have reached Pahaska, Wyoming, and are with the Indians, bass and trout. The bridge is called Fishing Bridge, Yellowstone National Park, and looks a mile long.

Bruce Fairchild fishes for fish. Some may fish for sport, but not Bruce. He can be seen each evening catching crayfish in the branches and baiting his trot lines. The next morning at daybreak he can be seen getting out of his truck with a string of fish. It is safe to say he has caught near a hundred. He is fishing at the Gordon Ford and thinks the big one is called.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nickell, Mr. and Mrs. C. Nickell, Mr. and Mrs. Estill Steele, Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Bach attended the Southern States Conference of the Farm Bureau at Daytona Beach, Fla. They visited St. Augustine and other places of tourist attraction and also the deer races. That night Curran Nickell jumped and yelled out "Seek um!" The next day he went out to the dock and said he saw a fish big as a man jump out of the water. Or did he see a bathing beauty or mermaid.

J. C. Carpenter of Omer was in town with his son O. R. of Middletown who subscribed for the Courier. He said he fish three nights and only caught a mud turtle. He says that Marion Lawson's fish stories will bear inspection.
